HIGH SCHOOL NIGHT DRAWS CROWD

DANCING DENOUNCED IN SCATHING TERMS.

Evangelist Smith Uses Plain Language in Reference to the Subject and Calls Forth Rounds of Cheers From Audience

Even the cold weather could not keep the people away from the Evangelistic meeting at the tent last night, and seats were at a premium. The High school Cadets were out in a body, some 200 strong, part of them in uniform, and they made a most creditable appearance, being roundly cheered by the large audience.

Their favorite song was sung for them—"Dwelling in Beulah Land"—they gave their yells for the evangelist and the big choir returned the salute with a yell for the Cadets and Profs. Blanton and Nolley who were in charge. It was the second time the cadets attended in a body, their first meeting last week having been broken up by the storm.

Included in the musical part of the program was a solo by Miss Hoagland entitled "He Lifted Me." The choir also rendered excellent music under direction of Mr. Geo. B. Kennedy in the absence of Prof. Cole who had been called to Charlottesville.

Prayers were asked for a lady over 70 years old; for a father; for a son addicted to drink; for three brothers in one family and for two brothers in another home. Rev. Wayte of the Del Ray Baptist church offered the prayer of invocation.

Attorney J. R. Caton addressed the audience concerning the free will offering to be given to the evangelist in which he referred to the earnest and effective work he had done since coming here and expressed the hope that his efforts might be rewarded as they so richly deserve.

Rev. Smith spoke upon Paul's sea journey to Rome, whither he was being taken for trial, as related in the 27th chapter of Acts, the sermon being a continuation practically of the one which was interrupted by the storm a week ago.

He said that Paul had wished for years that he might go to Rome to preach, and now he was on his way there for trial. Refusing to heed Paul's warning, the captain of the ship proceeded on the voyage, encountering the storm as told in the chapter read. He said he could imagine hearing the officers asking each other "What does that man know about sailing a vessel, and other similar remarks, which subsequent events evidently caused them to regret.

Coming down to the evils which are ruining lives today, he paid his respects to the modern dance in scathing terms. Said he:

"A girl asked me if it was wrong to dance. I said, no go home and dance all you want to. But she answered that there would be no fun in that. Certainly not. Separate the hugs from the dance and it wouldn't be a dance! (Here he told a few things which showed that he knew whereof he spoke).

"Dancing is the one thing that requires both sexes, for the pleasure of dancing is based on passion! Seventy-five per cent of the girls on the street trace their downfall to thedance. And yet the dance hall girls have got you society people beat a mile—they wear more clothes! And listen, girls! If you could hear the remarks about you made, by fellows between the dances you wouldn't want to trust yourselves with them! You wouldn't want to make yourselves so cheap!

"You say can't I dance with my wife? Dance with whose wife? It's the other man's wife you want to dance with.

"The dance is nothing but a sexual love-feast set to music!

"Nobody can rise so high or fall so low as a woman!

"Young men halt and think! Some of you are rushing headlong to that which may mean your ruin! Think before you take the first glass!

"I've known young men and young women who had reached a point where they felt that they could not stop and so "let her drive" and have gone down to ruin. If you trifle with sin you'll damn yourselves. Play your soul in the hands of the devil and he'll make it hot for you here as well as hereafter. Obey God and let Him save you.

"And there is the indifferent class—which predominates in Alexandria. Don't go on fooling with your soul which is to live in two worlds!

"All I ask of you is to use common sense in religion. That's all. Obey the light you've got. Publicly confess Christ. God doesn't stop with just loving you. He will give you victory!

"Will you accept Him? I call upon you tonight! The shores of Time are strewn with the souls of those who have said they'd have their own way! And I'd rather save you young boys and girls than all the grayheads in Alexandria! And it doesn't mean that you will have to be any less a man or woman to serve Christ. Will you come?"

Fifty-four went forward and grasped the evangelist's hand in response to the invitation.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

Plan Many Charitable Activities for Coming Season.

The members of St. Vincent de Paul Society will meet in Lyceum Hall, tomorrow morning, immediately after their attendance upon High Mass, for the purpose of discussing their work for the coming season and to make the necessary arrangements for the care of the poor whom they are now providing for.

This organization, which is very active in the city, is under the direction of M. R. O'Sullivan, as president and William H. Sweeney, superintendent of schools, as secretary. Its work is, however, done so quietly that fe ware aware of its scope. The members of the Society do not divulge the names or identity of those whom they help. Another feature of their charity is that they do not give second-hand things. Each recipient of aid is given only brand-new articles, especially purchased for them.

STRIKE A FAILURE

New York, Sept. 30—With the sympathetic walk-out rolled flat by the steam roller of unionism and a traction strike on its last legs from lack of support, labor men are busy taking account of stock. Few persons outside of the movement realize the significance of the events which have followed the strike of a few motormen and conductors in lower Westchester county last July.

When the building trades delegates Thursday declined to vote for a general strike to bolster up the demands of the traction workers, they not only signed the death warrant of the strike but many union men believe gave the first sign that the power and influence of the American Federation of Labor is waning after many years of heavy control in the trade union field.

The refusal of union labor in New York to come to their aid after the glittering promises of leaders of the American Federation of Labor leaders was a shock to the striking street carmen from which they have not received.

It is suggested by the disappointed ones that a labor union movement more momentous than any since the passing of the Knights of Labor and the accession to power of the Gompers group may follow quickly.

Gompers may witness the disintegration of the organization he built up and over which he has exercised almost despotic control. The American Federation of Labor faces the bitterest fight in its history, and the setback it has sustained in New York it of its last appeal to labor throughmay be the one thing needed to rob out the United States.

New Clothing Store.

The Levinson Clothing Company will open up a new clothing store in this city at 426 King street on October 7, at 6:30 p. m. with a full line of men's boys' and children's clothing and furnishings. 229-5t.

Mr. Business Man!

Are you one of those who do not believe that there should be any sentiment in business? Do you know that sentiment is the mortar of life? Have you considered that astute merchants like John Wanamaker and Marshall Field have created a strong sentiment between themselves and the buying public?

And what do you suppose enables the little old home paper to hold its own against the competition of the great city newspapers? Sentiment largely. People like this little Gazette of our, for many reasons—many of them sentimental. And they read it!

Don't make any mistake about the value of the little home paper. It's your most divest method of approach to the the people upon whom you depend.

Yours for Service,
THE GAZETTE.

IS A MILK BOYCOTT THREATENED?

PROMINENT WOMEN SAID TO BE INTERESTED

Movement is Caused by Advance in Price Effective Tomorrow—Had Price Not Been Raised Dealers Say Alexandria Would Face New York Famine Conditions.

Had the local dairymen not raised the price of milk, and thus been enabled to meet the increased prices demanded by those from whom they purchase their supplies, Alexandria would have faced the same condition of milk famine which now confronts New York.

The largest distributors of milk in that city admit that after today, when their contracts with up-state producers expire, they will be unable to take care of their customers. It is estimated that the amount they will be able to procure is only about thirty per cent of the amount available in normal times and this will be barely enough for the babies of the city and the hospitals.

Several of the local milk dealers say that numbers of their customers have threatened a strike; that they will use either condensed milk or go without altogether unless the dealers retain the price of four cents a pint and eight cents a quart, which will be increased one cent per pint commencing tomorrow.

In reply a number of the dealers, who refuse to be quoted, say that they have been doing business at a loss, considering their original investment and their overhead charges for several years. It would pay better, they say, to turn the milk into butter and cheese or feed it to hogs than to sell it at the old price. And they threaten, as the New York milk producers are now doing, to go out of the milk deliver business rather than continue under present conditions.

Carroll D. Woolf, in conversation with a Gazette representative, would not discuss the matter of the proposed strike or boycott of the dealers who are advancing their prices, and which is said to be pushed by a prominent woman, who is quietly enlisting the support of other women in a movement to make the boycott general.

Mr. Woolf pointed out, as has already been stated in The Gazette, that the prices of every form of feed needed to produce milk, as well as labor, and the cows themselves, have so greatly increased that the increase is an urgent economic necessity and that a strike or attempt to boycott the dealers would have absolutely no effect upon the situation.

THE RAMBLER.

"I'm so lonesome sometimes that I'm afraid I'll become insane."

She had the carriage and the stride of a girl. Her voice was soft and rich, with an undertone of sadness that etched itself in my consciousness.

Surely, I thought, a girl like she is need not be lonesome.

I caught up with her and her much older companion; ;an;;d; ;;I ;g;l;anc older companion; and I glanced furtively at her as I passed them by. We were ships passing in the night. I shall remember her face for a long time. She was not beautiful. And how can I describe the sadness of it? She was much older than I had thought—perhaps forty-five years of age.

I remember standing on the shore of Cape Cod, near Sandwich, one night, last fall. Beyond a few lights twinkling far out on the water there was no other visible sign of life. Hillocks of sand, scantily clothed with verbiage, stretched for miles behind me. It had but lately ceased to rain. Lowering clouds hid the face of the starless sky. The incoming tide advanced toward me wave by wave, with a dirge-like, booming cadence that slithered into a minor note—a sort of moan—as each wave sloughed back a little, as if seeking reinforcement for its attack upon the shore. In such an environment, if one is keyed to nature, one must be sad, and I yas sad—exquisitely sad. One may luxuriate on sadness, you know! And the woman on the street affected me in just the same way that I felt that night on the seashore.

You who have never been lonesome, what gratitude you should feel and render! And the only return you can make is in the finding of someone who is; and in the giving to them of surcease of their loneliness—if you can.

Death, misfortune, many causes outside of personal fault, make derelicts of many splendid women, who thus find themselves, with age advancing inexorably upon them, alone in the world. They must either reconstruct their plan of life or endure loneliness. Sometimes they are driven to grasp almost blindly at whatever companionship their limited opportunity affords them, and they are thus oftentimes wrecked.

There are many such women—here, there, everywhere. They do not have the opportunity to get out and around that men have. They are hedged about by a host of conventions. Sisters, make it a point to scan the lists of the possibly lonesome women you know and "sister" them a little for the sake of whatever ideal you bow down to.

I'm going to call him Bill because a great many of you have known him during a much longer period than I have. But I've sized Bill up pretty well, I think. He comes into a place that I loaf in briefly and occasionally.

Frankly, Bill has been a good deal of a 'soak' for a good many years. He's a harmless kind of a chap who has never harmed anyone else—consciously so, at least—but who has harmed himself a great deal. He started out with fine prospects, but now he's entirely run-down at the heels. He hasn't a thing left in the world but his word; but—here's the fine thing about him—he keeps that.

The reason I'm plugging for Bill is that he has recently made up his mind—some of you will suspect why!—to walk a chalk line. Bill's trail has been like a cow-path in the woods for so long that folks just can't seem to take him seriously. They're submitting Bill to a terrible test. They are, or so Bill thinks, making fun of him. As a matter of fact they are, but not with malicious intent. But he's one of those fellows who are always picturesque, whether sinning or sainting, and frankly, he's not quite so entertaining and delightful good as he was un-so.

I'll admit that its hard to take Bill seriously. There's a twinkle in his eyes that even hard luck has not been able to drive back; and an uptilt to his nose, and a lift to the corners of his mouth, that make it hard to regard him gravely.

But the thing IS a serious matter with Bill. If Bill slips back he'll make an awful splash and he's one of those honest fellows who would always be afraid to make another trial at the chalk line.

THE POLICE SALARIES.

It is a matter for congratulation of the City Fathers that they are considering the salaries of the members of Alexandria's police force. In view of the greatly advanced cost of living it is not fair to ask public servants to give us effecient service for a salary that was not any too large even several years ago.

In New York City, where the police are termed 'The Finest,' the pay of an ordinary patrolman, in his second year of service, is greater than that of Alexandria's Chief of Police. And in practically every fair-sized city of this country policemen's wages are scaled to rise automatically with length of service.

The police force of Alexandria is an efficient body, composed of courteous individuals, and alive to the public interest. It is earnestly to be hoped that they may receive what is their due—a practical demonstration that their loyalty is thoroughly appreciated.

A NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENT

Less than a decade ago it was the commonly accepted belief that philanthropists and charitarians, of whatever sort, were long-haired, impractical and slightly 'cracked' individuals. Today we find that the great majority of people have awakened to the fact that the administration of charity is coming to be a very exact science.

A group of men and women of Alexandria, assisted by a great many of their fellow-citizens, have demonstrated the value of the business sense in philanthropic endeavor. We refer to the achievement of the Board of Managers of the Anne Lee Memorial Home.

They selected a buiding which a great many people prophesied would prove a white elephant on their hands, for which they paid a very small sum of money, indeed. Having in view the work to be accomplished they paid another very small sum for the necessary rehabilitation of the building. As one of the women active in the work said "We begged and borrowed labor as well as other necessary things."

It must be a tremendous satisfaction to these men and women, who have given so much of their time and thought for others, to be able to reflect that the property they were criticised for acquiring, has, through their effort, increased seven or eight hundred per cent in value. And their success must have this effect upon those whom they approach for assistance to carry on their work—dependent entirely upon voluntary contributions—that people will have confidence that whatever is given to them will be well spent. A vast number of people, charitably inclined, have been deterred from giving by the thought that what they gave would be wastefully handled.

A SIGNIFICANT CHANGE OF ATTITUDE.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg has talked, but he has not said anything. And there is now no doubt that Lloyd George's expression of the determination of the Allies to fight to a finish was intended to give the German Chancellor, in particular, something to think about.

A careful reading of the speech to the Reichstag brings one very significant thought. It is free from the bombast of former speeches. For the first time the Chancellor publicly recognises German reverses; and he is aware that there can come no peace on favorable terms to Germany, excepting only in the extremely unlikely event that she may be victorious.

In a word it is plain that Germany has her back up against the wall, and the wall of a corner at that. For the rest of the Chancellor's efforts abounds with that sort of self-delusion, if one may not use a harsher term, which has made the German statesmen the wonder of the remainder of the civilised world. And, in spite of all the reliable reports to the contrary, he assures us that there is an ample supply of foodstuffs to meet the need of the coming winter.

CAMPAIGN PERSONALITIES

The Washington Post finds fault with President Wilson for his retort to Jeremiah O'Leary, president of the muchly mis-named American Truth Society. In this, in answer to a diatribe, Mr. Wilson stated that he would be mortified to receive the support of such disloyal citizens as Mr. O'Leary and others of his kidney.

The American Truth Society is largely composed of Irish-Americans who are pro-German and anti-British in all their tendencies. And they are also disloyal Irishmen.

An overwhelming majority of the Irish-Americans who have affiliated themselves with this society have never been in Ireland and have not the faintest conception of the conditions which now prevail there. And they hate John Redmond, one of Ireland's greatest men, as St. Patrick must have hated the snakes.

The Post accuses Mr. Wilson of injecting personalities into the campaign. We wonder how many other men would have stood, without answer, the personal abuse which has been directed at the President from Messrs' Roosevelt, Hughes, et als, without reply. Mr. Wilson simply took apportunity to put himself on record as to the American Irish Society.

BEWARE THE WOMAN!

The revelations now being made in Chicago and other cities of the blackmailing of men who have laid themselves open by violation of the Mann White Slave law by scheming and adventuresome men and women are attracting considerable atention in all parts of the country. thousands of dollars it is shown have been extorted from men who preferred financial loss to publicity in alleged damage suits. This species of robbery was largely practiced in England many years ago.

In that country certain females would spot some wealthy man as he was about to enter a car, and select a compartment where no one save her victim and herself were to ride. The woman would, as soon as possible, ask him a question and engage in a conversation, during which she would obtain the man's name and address, and the latter would subsequently be notified that a suit had been entered against him by his fellow-passenger for five thousand pounds. In some cases the victims of the fraud compromised the matter by paying smaller sums, preferring to lose that much money than to be compelled to appear in court and combat the statement of the complainant. Wealthy Englishmen about that time refused to ride in a compartment with one woman.

A gentleman of this city was approached a few weeks ago on King street by a fashionably - dressed strange woman, who pretended to be anxious to obtain some facts in connection with this city. The Alexandrian answered her question, but she continued to talk and eventually followed him to his office. She took a seat without invitation, and although the man showed no disposition to continue the interview, his newly-made acquaintance was loth to bring here visit to a close. She finally acted in a manner which excited the suspicion of the Alexandrian, and which caused him to suspect that he was entertaining a scheming female who had intruded into his office with no good intentions. He finally told her the hour for closing his office had arrived and she must vacate the premises.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Bed Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emery, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work.

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16.

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak a its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.

Modernized Chiropractic has put more so-called Incurable Diseases on the list of curables than any other drugless method known.

When applied to the study of the nature, cause and elimination of disease, it becomes a science and philosophy whch is able to locate and analyze, unerringly, the cause of disease, and provides the best method known at the present time for removing the cause.

The method is original, unique, adequate, and is the most prompt in bringing about a cure. It is absolutely safe.

The basic principles of Chiropratic are in no way at variance with the established facts of Anatomy and Physiology, the two branches of medical science which are the foundation of all others.

PANTOMIMIC TRIBUNAL

Justice Caton and Prisoner at the Bar Talk on Their Fingers This morning.

An old offender—a good-natured individual in whom the image of the Creator has long been marred by his propensity to tarry too long with the wine—stood before the bar of the Police Court this morning. It was the same old story—he had been tipsy and long minus a home. The dipsomaniac is a mute, and while he twirled his hat he kept his hands and fingers in continuous motion. Justice Caton, who is an expert in the mute language, kept his members also at work, but not with the same velocity. The justice eventually made a sign which depressed the prisoner. The latter's countenance fell, the justice signified that the case was closed, and that the offender must spend the next ninety days in his old home—the workhouse. The latter walked slowly into the corridor to await a time when a minion of the law will accompany him to his winter quarters.

As stated above, the man who has made shipwreck of his life has one besetting weakness and is docile and industrious when work is placed before him. The sire of this man was a deservedly respected citizen, one who worked daily at a secondary occupation and set his family the proper example, but his offspring, like so many others, imagined, as did Doctor Jekyll, that he could toy with evil and cast it off at his will. He failed, as is the case with the great majority who manifest such temerity.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Leland Rice, one of four bandits who robbed the State Bank of Homestead, Fla., two weeks ago and eluded a Shriff's posse in a chase of several days through the Everglades and by motorboat along the coast, was shot and killed on Chokoloskee Island yesterday by Rollo Wiggins, a resident there. The shooting occurred when Wiggins tried to capture Rice, who had come to the island for food. The robbers got $6,000 from the Homestead bank and killed three members of the posse pursuing them.

One hundred and sixty-one persons were killed and 357 injured in grade crossing accidents in Pennsylvania in the year ended June 30 last, according to the report of John P. Dohoney, investigator of accidents to the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania. Fifty-eight of those killed and 188 of the injured were automobilists. This class of accidents is increasing rapidly, the report stated. doctors at Lincoln Hospital, New York, yesterday in the case of Mrs. Martha Runge, who died 24 hours after she had been found, unconscious by agents of the Children's Society at her home. Deserted by her husband, a carpenter, she had been too proud to beg. Moreover, she had been too proud to share with her three children what little food they had brought home from kindly neighbors for running errands.

"Look at the nice furniture in the apartment over there," Mrs. Lena Millrad, 30, a bride of two weeks, asserts her husband said to her, calling her to the window of their apartment in Charlotte street, New York. As she did so, she claims he pushed her out of the five-story window. Clothes-lines broke the force of her fall into the courtyard and perhaps saved her life. Millrad denies the charge.

"My son nineteen years of age suffered frequently from bilious attacks. My husband brought home a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets and began giving them to him. They helped him right away. He began to eat heartily and picked up right along," writes Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Kirkville, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.

FOOT BALL SEASON OPEN

High School Team Left This Morning to Play Randolph-Macon Collegians.

The Alexandria High School opens its football schedule today with the team of the Randolph-Macon Academy at Front Royal, Va. With a strong body of enthusiastic supporters the fellows left the city this morning, shortly after eight o'clock, filled with determination to bring back what one of them called 'the bacon.'

Determination and enthusiasm are not the only assets the white and maroon boys have, however, for the season opened well with thirty or more candidates upon the field. From this squad, coach W. Nalls and Nolley have moulded an aggregation which has all the ear-marks of being superior to all former high school teams.

In the showing thus far Captain Gus Pohl, with Leo Pohl, both at half, are the main stays in the back field, while Francis Summers, at right tackle and Jack curtin at Centre will make themselves felt in the line.

In the scrimmages the second team has shown up well and bids fair in the near future to present a more formidable front; and to make the first team men fight to hold their jobs.

The line-up for today's fight in the battle of the pigskin is:

L. E. John Duncan.
L. T. Herbert Allan.
L. G. Wingate Summers.
C. John Curtin.
R. G. Bill Meeks.
R. T. Francis Summers.
R. E. Jim Williamson
L. H. B. Leo Pohl.
R. H. B. Gus Pohl.
Q. B. Carl Dreifus.
F. B. Earl Trigger.

Substitutes: Nugent, Howard and Remington.

The squad has now been in practice during a period of about two weeks, but this has not interfered with the membership of practically all the fellows in the Cadet Corps, which is drilled on Monday and Thursday afternoons under the direction of Superintendent of Schools W. H. Sweeney and Professor Stanley G. Blanton. The company now musters nearly 100.

A strong effort is to be made to induce a greater interest on the part of the general public in the High School athletics, and a larger attendance at the games. The Board of Education has not yet seen its way clear to make any appropriation for this branch of the school endeavor, and the various sports are therefore dependent largely upon individual contributions.

Mr. Sweeney this morning said that he intends fostering the athletic spirit to a greater degree than ever and as far as may be without interfering with the studies of the participants in the various sports. He regards the health engendered by the open-air work as an important factor in scholastic standing. The members of the High School faculty are in cordial agreement with him in this and are lending substantial aid in every way possible to them.

Arrangements are also being made by the Girl's Athletic Committee for the formation of a basket ball team for which it is said, there is abundant of material.

Over 100 Villa followers were killed, the bandit leader, Eandolio Uribe, was taken prisoner and heavy casualties suffered by Carranza forces in a terrific fight at Guachuriachic, an important mining centre about 50 miles southwest of Chihuahua City, Mexico.

Notice.

If any of the Gipsy Smith converts wish to identify themselves with the new Christian (Disciple) Church to be organized in Alexandria in the near future, they will please sign cards to that effect, giving Street number and leave cards with the chairman of the Laymen's League.

Chronic Dysentery.

"An old gentleman of this town who was almost at the point of death with chronic dysentery some time ago and had given up all hope of recovery was induced to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. One dose stopped the discharge, and after taking a few more doses he was completely cured," writes J. L. Baer, West Manchester, Pa. "Many residents of Baer's Station can testify to the truth of this statement and were friends of the old gentleman." Obtainable everywhere.

Oyster season now open at the Rammel Cafe.

SMALL BOY WITH PISTOL

Twelve Year Old Negro Carries Weapon While at Work at Glass Works.

The propensity of some negroes to carry weapons, it seems, is not confined to adults, but to boys, as was shown by a case before the Police Court this morning. Sergeant Scott brought before the bar a negro boy, twelve years of age, who gave his name as George Wallace. The complainant in the case was a young white man named James King. According to the latter, the boy drew the pistol on him while at work at the glass works, and in order to protect himself he was compelled to disarm the boy. Wallace in his statement said the pistol belonged to another negro boy named David Johnson.

Justice Caton ordered the boy to return to his work and directed the officer to go to the glass works and obtain the pistol.

A movement has been started in Richmond for the purpose of making it an unlawful act for a dealer to sell pistols, dirks, brass knuckles, slugshots, etc., to any purchaser who may come along. The quiet people of the state would rejoice were the Legislature to pass such an act. A few years ago the law directed justices of police courts to confiscate pistols and other weapons found upon prisoners and sell the same, the proceeds to go to the school fund. When forty or fifty pistols had accumulated they were generally disposed of to a second-hand dealer who in turn sold them again to the parties from whom they had been taken. The present law directs the court to destroy the weapons.

PLAIN QUESTIONS TO ALEXANDRIA PEOPLE.

Every Alexandria Reader Will Admit The Soundness of the Logic

Would Alexandria people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do if the medicine were not reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years have elapsed if their experiences did not show the remedy to be deserving of it? Statements like the following must carry conviction to the mind of every reader

Mrs. G. W. Davis, 107 Prince St., Alexandria, says: "Doctors treated me for a long while and pronounced my case of kidney trouble a severe one. Often I felt so listless and nervous that I almost gave up hope. I endured tortures from the complaint. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief after everything else had proven of no value. They strengthened me and removed the trouble from the kidney secretions." (Statement given in March, 1912.)

On April 9, 1916 Mrs. Davis added: "I still taken Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when my kidneys don't act as they should and I get instant relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. G. W. Davis had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

VIRGINIA NEWS

Paragraphs Picked Up Here and There Throughout the State.

With the battleship Wyoming leading the way, followed by seven other warships, a unique procession pasred out of the Virginia Capes yesterday, when the interned German cruisers Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm left Portsmouth for Philadelphia, where they will remain until the end of the European war. The ships have been here since February, 1915. Flying the German naval ensign, the Kronprinz Wilhelm left the navy yard in tow of the naval tenders Sonoma, Ontario and Patuxent. The Eitel Friedrich left under her own steam an hour later, with the German flag conspicuously displayed both forward and aft.

Work has been started in Woodstock, on the new factory for the Chapin-Sacks Manufacturing Company, a dairy and creamery plant. The building will be located on the new tracks recently laid by the Southern Railway. The company has plants in Richmond Lynchburg and Petersburg. More than $11,000 worth of milk is handled monthly.

Benjamin F. Johnson, Jr., aged 23 years, was instantly killed and his brothers. Marvin and Thomas Johnson, were severely shocked and burned when lightning struck the barn at their home near Foxhill, Elizabeth county, yesterday afternoon.

Owing to prevalence of diptheria in Spotsylvania county the term of the Circuit Court at Spotsylvania set for Monday will be postponed. Governor Stuart was to have addressed the voters of Spotsylvania county at Spotsylvania Court House Monday, but this appointment will have to be changed.

Get Rid of That Miserable Feeling.

There are few diseases that make one feel more miserable than a disordered stomach. Mrs. A. Wingale, Gorham, N. Y., writes: "I began using Chamberlain's Tablets about five years ago. At that time I was having a great deal of trouble with my stomach. I suffered great distress due to indigestion and constipation. Nothing did me much good until I got Chamberlain's Tablets."
